MARTINEZ RENEWABLES FACILITY SUSTAINABILITY HIGHLIGHTS

The Martinez Renewables facility, located in Contra Costa County, is a 50/50 joint venture, formed in 2022, with Neste Following a two-year conversion from a petroleum refinery to a renewable fuels facility, the site became operational with both production and pretreatment capabilities in 2024. Today, it is one of the largest renewable diesel facilities in the world and manufactures liquid fuels that support California's Low Carbon Fuel Standard (LCFS) goals. The facility meets regional energy demands through a strong commitment to environmental stewardship, community partnerships and a strong culture of safety. Products are transported to customers via pipeline, barge, ocean tanker, transport trucks and rail.
